AMER KOBASLIJA: 'THE POETICS OF SPACE' In half of the paintings in this show the precarious bird's-eye views of the painter's studios in New York and now Florida (lucky guy) have gotten even more precipitous. The paint describing the rooms is even looser than before, but the sharp details attest, as before, to the labor, messiness, loneliness and pleasures of artistic solitude. In equal detail, with similar concentration, the remaining works depict the desolate solitude of vacant public bathrooms. (Think of gas stations.) The similarities and differences are food for thought. George Adams Gallery, 525 West 26th Street, Chelsea, (212) 564-8480, georgeadamsgallery.com; closes on Saturday. (Roberta Smith)
